Re: Freedom of Information Act Appeal - Case Numbers F-2006-00994 and F-2006-01014

Dear Sir or Madam::

On April 25, 2006 Amnesty International USA^{1/} ("Amnesty") and Washington Square Legal Services ("WSLS") filed two requests for information under the Freedom of Information Act regarding detainees secretly held by the United States Government, including "Ghost Detainees/Prisoners," "Unregistered Detainees/Prisoners" and "CIA Detainees/Prisoners" ("the Requests"). Your agency, the Central Intelligence Agency ("CIA"), assigned the Requests case numbers F-2006-00994 and F-2006-01014. Although the Department of Justice's Office of Public Affairs granted our request for expedited processing for identical requests, you denied our request for expedited processing on May 5, 2006. Copies of the Requests and the denial letters are attached. See Exhibits A-D.

Amnesty and WSLS hereby appeal the CIA's denial of expedited processing of the Requests. As set forth in 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(E)(i)(I) and 32 C.F.R. § 1900.34, information requests qualify for expedited processing where (1) the failure to obtain the requested information on an expedited basis could reasonably be expected to pose an imminent threat to the life or physical safety of at least one individual, or (2) where the requestor is primarily engaged in disseminating information and the information requested here is relevant to a matter of public urgency concerning an actual or alleged Federal government activity. As demonstrated in our original requests, and elaborated upon below, the Requests qualify for expedited treatment under both standards.

^{1/} Amnesty International USA is the U.S. Section of Amnesty International. See <http://www.amnestyusa.org/about/>.

1. Amnesty is primarily engaged in disseminating information and there is a clear "urgency to inform the public concerning actual or alleged government activity"

a. Amnesty is primarily engaged in disseminating information^{2/}

Amnesty plainly qualifies as an entity primarily engaged in disseminating information. As a human rights organization, Amnesty's primary activity involves disseminating information to the public regarding human rights. According to its governing statute, Amnesty's human rights mission is accomplished by disclosing human rights abuses accurately, quickly and persistently. It researches individual cases as well as patterns of human rights abuses and then "these findings are publicized, and members, supporters and staff mobilize public pressure on governments and others to stop the abuses."^{3/} As it explains on its website: "We search out the facts. We send experts to talk with victims, observe trials and interview local human rights activists and officials. We monitor thousands of media outlets and maintain contact with reliable sources of information all over the world. We publish detailed reports. We inform the news media. We publicize our concerns in leaflets, posters, advertisements, newsletters and websites."^{4/}

Amnesty disseminates this information through its heavily subscribed website, <www.amnestyusa.org>, and directs e-mails to its more than 330,000 members in the United States.⁵ The website addresses human rights issues in depth, provides features on human rights issues in the news, and contains an online library containing thousands of documents and articles relating to the issues addressed by Amnesty -- including information and documents obtained on issues covered by the Requests.^{6/} Amnesty also conducts news briefings, issues press releases,

^{2/} As explained in the Requests, WSLs is also an entity primarily engaged in disseminating information. However, because Amnesty clearly meets this requirement, the Requests qualify for expedited treatment regardless of whether WSLs also qualifies. See ACLU v. DOJ, 321 F. Supp. 2d 24, 30 n5 (2004) ("as long as one of the plaintiffs qualifies as an entity 'primarily engaged in disseminating information' the requirement is satisfied") (citing Al-Fayed v. CIA, 254 F.3d 300, 309 (D.C. Cir. 2001)).

^{3/} Statute of Amnesty International, Methods, available at <http://web.amnesty.org/pages/aboutai-statute-eng> (as amended by the 27th International Council, meeting in Morelos, Mexico, 14 to 20 August 2005).

^{6/} See e.g., Amnesty International, Public Statement (with Human Rights Watch, the International Commission of Jurists and the Association for the Prevention of Torture), Twelve Steps to End Renditions and Secret Detentions in and publishes newsletters, annual country reports, a quarterly magazine and other materials.⁷¹ Indeed, Amnesty's mission fundamentally depends on disseminating information to its members, governments and the public. Thus, "the publicizing of human rights abuses is a core component of Amnesty International's mission and is central to all of its activities."⁸¹

Courts have determined that entities similar to Amnesty are primarily engaged in dissemination of information for the purpose of receiving expedited processing of their FOIA requests. See e.g., Leadership Conference on Civil Rights v. Gonzales, 404 F. Supp. 2d 246, 260 (D.D.C. 2005) (determining that the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, a coalition of national organizations whose mission is to promote civil rights legislation and policy, was primarily engaged in dissemination of information for the purpose of expediting its FOIA requests); ACLU, 321 F. Supp. 2d at 29 n5 (determining that the Electronic Privacy Information Center (EPIC), a public interest research organization, was primarily engaged in dissemination of information for the purposes of expediting its request); Electronic Privacy Info. Center v. DOD, 241 F. Supp. 2d 5, 11 (D.D.C. 2003) (determining that EPIC was a representative of the news media for the purposes of a fee waiver). In making this determination, the critical question is whether the entity in question "gathers information of potential interest to a segment of the public, uses its editorial skills to turn the raw material into a distinct work, and distributes that work to an audience." EPIC, 241 F. Supp. 2d at 11. While the EPIC Court discussed this standard in the context of whether or not the EPIC met the "representative of the news media" requirement for a fee waiver, the analysis applies with equal force to the very similar "primarily engaged in disseminating information" requirement for expedited processing. See ACLU, 321 F. Supp. 2d at 29 n5 (relying on the same language from EPIC, 241 F. Supp. 2d at 11, in Europe, June 27, 2006, IOR 10/001/2006; Amnesty International, Public Statement, Council of Europe: PACE calls for an end to rendition and secret detention, June 27, 2006, IOR 10/002/2006; Amnesty International, Press Release, USA: Front companies used in secret flights to torture and "disappearance", May 4, 2006, AMR 51/054/2006; Amnesty International, Press Release, US: Government creating "climate of torture", May 3, 2006, AMR 51/070/2006; Amnesty International, Europe: Partners in crime: Europe's role in US renditions, June 14, 2006, EUR 01/008/2006; Amnesty International, Below the radar: Secret Flights to torture and 'disappearance', April 5, 2006, AMR 51/051/2006; Amnesty International, Secret Detention in CIA "Black Sites", Nov. 8, 2005, AMR 51/177/2005. All of these documents are available on <www.amnestyusa.org>.

⁷¹ The fact that Amnesty publishes these periodicals alone is sufficient to establish that Amnesty is a representative of the media, see EPIC, 241 F. Supp. 2d at 11-14 (concluding that EPIC is a news media entity because it publishes periodicals); National Security Archive v. DOD, 880 F.2d 1381, 1386 (D.C. Cir. 1989), and therefore to meet the "primarily engaged in disseminating information" standard. See ACLU v. DOJ, 321 F. Supp. 2d 24, 29 n5 (D.D.C. 2004).

⁸¹ Declaration of Curt Goering, Senior Deputy Executive Director for Policy and Programs, Amnesty International, USA, ¶ 5 (attached as Exhibit E).

concluding that EPIC was primarily engaged in dissemination of information for the purposes of expediting its request).^{9/}

Given the extent of Amnesty's disclosure of human rights information and publishing activities, the organization easily satisfies the "primarily engaged in disseminating information" requirement for expedited processing of the Requests.

b. There is "urgency to inform the public" about secret or irregular apprehension, transfer or detention

There is also clear urgency to inform the public on the issues of secret detention, ghost detainees, and extraordinary rendition. Courts have consistently recognized that ongoing media attention to an issue is an indicator of urgency. See Al-Fayed v. CIA, 254 F.3d 300, 308 (2001) (recognizing fact that an issue "is the subject of current news coverage" is an important factor in deciding whether compelling need exists); ACLU of Northern Cal. v. DOD, 2006 WL 1469418, *7 (N.D. Cal. May 25, 2006) ("If anything, extensive media interest usually is a fact supporting not negating urgency in the processing of FOIA request.") (emphasis in original); ACLU, 321 F. Supp. 2d at 29-31 (newspaper articles reflecting public concern a factor supporting finding of urgency).

The Requests clearly relate to a subject of general public interest and ongoing media attention. As explained in the original Requests, media sources around the world have avidly covered news related to these matters, but much pertinent information concerning rendition and ghost detainees is not yet known to the public. Indeed, media interest in secret detention, ghost detainees, and extraordinary rendition has only increased since the filing of the original Requests.¹⁰

^{9/} See also 32 C.F.R. § 286.4(d)(3)(ii) (Department of Defense Regs) ("Representatives of the news media . . . would normally qualify as individuals primarily engaged in disseminating information.").

In addition, the urgency to inform the public is further underscored here by the fact that the European Union and the Council of Europe are conducting official investigations into the practice of rendition and the involvement of European countries in extraordinary rendition and secret detention.^{11/} In the last month alone, each of the investigations has produced a report, thereby further heightening public interest in these topics.^{12/} These European investigations have encountered difficulties in obtaining information about these practices^{13/} and have highlighted the extent to which there is a lack of information about the system.^{14/} Where public debate and investigations are ongoing, there is a particular value to the disclosure of information, in order to accurately frame the debate or conclude the investigation.

Finally, the urgent need to inform the public about secret detention, ghost detainees, and extraordinary rendition is further supported by the fact that these alleged government practices are ongoing. As a result, the alleged program's details and the potential violation of individuals' human rights are of immediate concern to Amnesty and the general public. See ACLU, 321 F. Supp. 2d at 30 ("Because the records that plaintiffs seek relate to current surveillance efforts, the potential invasion of the public's privacy interests is of immediate concern, weighing in favor of a finding of expediency").

In short, given the widespread and continuing interest that surrounds these issues, the fact that both the controversy and the alleged government programs are ongoing, and that fundamental components of the alleged program are still unknown, it is clear that there is urgency to inform the public about the information sought by the Requests.

2. "Failure to obtain the records on an expedited basis could reasonably be expected to pose an imminent threat to the life or physical safety of an individual"

Amnesty and WSLs have requested information regarding the government's program for secretly or irregularly apprehending, transferring or detaining individuals, which allegedly involves the ongoing unlawful detention and abuse of individuals by or with the involvement of U.S. agents. There are publicly reported allegations that individuals are being abused as part of the government's secret detention programs. The Requests therefore satisfy the requirement that denying a request for expedited processing "could reasonably be expected to pose an imminent threat to the life or physical safety of at least one individual."

For example, ABC News reported that ten detainees held by the U.S. in secret sites were subjected to "enhanced interrogation techniques," including waterboarding.^{15/} The Washington Post reported that one suspect held in custody by the U.S. Government was held incommunicado for nearly five months, and subjected to threats of violence and physical harm. The captive was reportedly told "You are in a country where no one knows about you, in a country where there is no law. If you die, we will bury you, and no one will know." He was kicked and beaten, and analysis of his hair after he was released revealed he was malnourished during his captivity.^{16/} In addition, there have been reports of torture of CIA "ghost detainees" in Afghanistan^{17/} and in Iraq^{18/}, including, in at least one case, the death of a prisoner, Manadel al-Jamadi.^{19/} Amnesty International's research shows that other individuals secretly detained suffered mistreatment,^{20/} and that torture and other forms of ill-treatment is typical of the experience of those subjected to extraordinary rendition.^{21/} It has further been reported that the United States' secret detention system has been designed to facilitate the gathering of intelligence unhindered by the due process rights that normally guard against this abuse.^{22/} Finally, it is widely recognized that secret detention is conducive to torture and other forms of human rights violations.^{23/}

If these reports are accurate, there plainly is an immediate threat to the life and physical safety of a number of individuals.^{24/} Expedited processing of records is therefore required to prevent further harm to individuals currently detained and those likely to be detained in the future.

Re: Request Submitted Under the Freedom of Information Act for Records Concerning Detainees, including "Ghost Detainees/Prisoners," "Unregistered Detainees/Prisoners," and
"CIA Detainees/Prisoners"

Dear Freedom of Information Officer:

This letter constitutes a request ("Request") pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. § 552 ("FOIA"). The Request is submitted on behalf of Amnesty International ("AI") and Washington Square Legal Services, Inc. ("WSLS"). AI is a non-government organization and a world-wide movement of members who campaign for internationally-recognized human rights. WSLS is the corporation that houses the International Human Rights Clinic ("the Clinic") of the New York University School of Law ("NYU Law School"). The Clinic is a project of NYU Law School's Center for Human Rights and Global Justice ("CHRGJ").

Fee Waiver

The requestors qualify as "representatives of the news media" and the records sought are not for commercial use. Moreover, this Request "is likely to contribute significantly to the public understanding of the operations or activities of the government and is not primarily in the commercial interest of the requester[s]." 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(4)(A)(iii).

Amnesty International is a non-governmental organization and a world-wide movement of members who campaign for internationally recognized human rights. AI publishes reports, press-briefings, newsletters and urgent action requests informing the public about human rights, including torture and disappearances. AI also disseminates information through its website www.amnesty.org.

³ Because of the nature of their detention, the requesters do not know the names or identities of those within the scope of this request. For examples of individuals that the United States has acknowledged detaining, but about whom the United States has not provided public information, see Center for Human Rights and Global Justice, Fate and Whereabouts Unknown: Detainees in the "War on Terror" (2005), available at <http://www.nyuh.org/docs/Whereabouts%20Unknown%20Final.pdf>; and Human Rights Watch, "List of 'Ghost Prisoners' Possibly in CIA Custody (2005), available at <http://hrw.org/english/docs/2005/11/30/usdom12109.htm>. The Center for Human Rights and Global Justice is a research center at NYU Law School. CHRGI aims to advance human rights and respect for the rule of law through advocacy, scholarship, education and training. CHRGI publishes reports and operates a website www.nyuhr.org discussing human rights issues.

The International Human Rights Clinic is a project of CHRGI and an official program at NYU Law School, composed of students and directed by clinical professors, who engage in research and advocacy on human rights issues.

Washington Square Legal Services is a not-for-profit corporation that houses the clinical program of NYU Law School.

The requesters plan to disseminate the information disclosed as a result of this Request through the channels described above.

Expedited Processing

Expedited processing is warranted as there is a "compelling need" for the records sought in this Request. 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(E)(i)(I). This need arises because the requesters are "primarily engaged in disseminating information" and there is an "urgency to inform the public concerning actual or alleged Federal Government Activity." 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(E)(v)(II). See also 32 C.F.R. § 286.4(d)(3)(ii) (DOD); 6 C.F.R. § 5.5(d)(1)(ii) (DHS); 28 C.F.R. § 16.5(d)(1)(ii) (DOJ); 22 C.F.R. § 171.12(b)(2) (DOS).

AI is primarily engaged in disseminating information about human rights, through its reports, newsletters, press-briefings, urgent action requests, and on its website. CHRGI is engaged in disseminating information about human rights, including in particular, the Federal Government's role in upholding human rights. As indicated above, this information is disseminated through published reports and CHRGI's website. The Clinic actively supports this work, and WSLs houses the clinic. As reflected in the media articles cited above, there is an urgent need to provide the public with information relating to the U.S. government's practices concerning unregistered or ghost detainees.

There is also a "compelling need" because failure to obtain the records on an expedited basis "could reasonably be expected to pose an imminent threat to the life or physical safety of an individual." 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(E)(v)(I). See also 32 C.F.R. § 286.4(d)(3)(i) (DOD); 6 C.F.R. § 5.5(d)(1)(i) (DHS); 28 C.F.R. § 16.5(d)(1)(i) (DOJ); 22 C.F.R. § 171.12(b)(1) (DOS). This Request arises in the context of allegations of ongoing unlawful detention and abuse of individuals with the involvement of U.S. agents abroad. Failure to publicly expose and thereby halt any such practices could reasonably be expected to pose an imminent threat to the physical safety and lives of individuals whose identities we are unable to ascertain without the records sought herein.

AI and WSLs certify that the foregoing statements regarding the basis for expedited processing are true and correct to the best of their knowledge and belief. 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(E)(vi). See also 32 C.F.R. § 286.4(d)(3)(iii) (DOD); 6 C.F.R. § 5.5(d)(3) (DHS); 28 C.F.R. § 16.5(d)(3) (DOJ); 22 C.F.R. § 171.12(b) (DOS).

We expect release of all segregable portions of otherwise exempt material. We also reserve the right to appeal a decision to withhold any information or to deny a waiver of fees.

As indicated above, we are applying for expedited processing of this Request. Notwithstanding your determination of that application, we look forward to your reply to the Request within twenty (20) days, as required under 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(A)(i).

The requestors qualify as "representatives of the news media" and the records sought are not for commercial use. Moreover, this Request "is likely to contribute significantly to the public understanding of the operations or activities of the government and is not primarily in the commercial interest of the requester[s]." 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(4)(A)(iii).

Amnesty International is a non-government organization and a world-wide movement of members who campaign for internationally recognized human rights. AI publishes reports, press-briefings, newsletters and urgent action requests informing the public about human rights, including the prohibition on torture and the prohibition on disappearances. AI also disseminates information through its website www.amnesty.org.

The Center for Human Rights and Global Justice is a research center at NYU Law School. CHRGGJ aims to advance human rights and respect for the rule of law through advocacy, scholarship, education and training. CHRGGJ publishes reports and operates a website www.nyuhr.org discussing human rights issues.

The International Human Rights Clinic is a project of CHRGGJ and an official program at NYU Law School, composed of students and directed by clinical professors, who engage in research and advocacy on human rights issues.

Washington Square Legal Services is a not-for-profit corporation that houses the clinical program of NYU Law School.

The requesters plan to disseminate the information disclosed as a result of this FOIA request through the channels described above.

Expedited Processing

Expedited processing is warranted as there is a "compelling need" for the records sought in this request. 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(E)(i)(I). The requesters are primarily engaged in "disseminating information" and there is an "urgency to inform the public concerning the actual or alleged Federal Government Activity." 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(E)(v)(II). See also 32 C.F.R. § 286.4(d)(3)(ii) (DOD); 6 C.F.R. § 5.5(d)(1)(ii) (DHS); 28 C.F.R. § 16.5(d)(1)(ii) (DOJ); 22 C.F.R. § 171.12(b)(2) (DOS).

AI is primarily engaged in disseminating information about human rights, through its reports, newsletters, press-briefings, urgent action requests, and on its website. CHRGGJ is engaged in disseminating information about human rights, including in particular, the Federal Government's role in upholding human rights. As indicated above, this information is disseminated through published reports and CHRGJ's website. The Clinic actively supports this work, and WSLs houses the clinic. As reflected in the media reports discussed above, there is an urgent need to provide the public with information relating to the U.S. government's practices concerning unregistered or ghost detainees.

There is also a "compelling need" because failure to obtain the records on an expedited basis "could reasonably be expected to pose an imminent threat to the life or physical safety of an individual." 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(E)(v)(I). See also 32 C.F.R. § 286.4(d)(3)(i) (DOD); 6 C.F.R. § 5.5(d)(1)(i) (DHS); 28 C.F.R. § 16.5(d)(1)(i) (DOJ); 22 C.F.R. § 171.12(b)(1) (DOS). This Request arises in the context of allegations of ongoing unlawful detention and abuse of individuals with the involvement of U.S. agents abroad. Failure to publicly expose and thereby halt the practices prompting this Request could reasonably be expected to pose an imminent threat to the physical safety and lives of such individuals.

AI and WSLs certify that the foregoing statements regarding the basis for expedited processing are true and correct to the best of their knowledge and belief. 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(E)(vi). See also 32 C.F.R. § 286.4(d)(3)(iii) (DOD); 6 C.F.R. § 5.5(d)(3) (DHS); 28 C.F.R. § 16.5(d)(3) (DOJ); 22 C.F.R. § 171.12(b) (DOS).

As indicated above, we are applying for expedited processing of this Request. Notwithstanding your determination of that application, we look forward to your reply to the Request within twenty (20) days, as required under 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(A)(i).

DECLARATION OF CURT GOERING
IN SUPPORT OF REQUEST FOR EXPEDITED PROCESSING

I, Curt Goering, declare pursuant to 5 U.S.C. § 552 and 32 C.F.R. § 286.4 (d)(3)(iv):

1. I am the Senior Deputy Executive Director for Policy and Programs of Amnesty International USA (AIUSA). I submit this declaration in support of the Freedom of Information Act appeal of denial of expedited processing filed today on behalf of Amnesty International and Washington Square Legal Services, Inc.
2. I have been involved with Amnesty International in various capacities for twenty-five years. During that time, I have held positions at Amnesty International's international headquarters in London and at its government relations office in Washington, D.C. I currently work at the national section headquarters in New York City.
3. Amnesty International is dedicated to bringing about a world in which every person enjoys all of the human rights enshrined in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and other international human rights instruments. To accomplish this goal, Amnesty engages in research and action campaigns. At the heart of every campaign is the dissemination of information about particular human rights abuses that Amnesty International has documented. Amnesty International expends extensive resources researching alleged abuses to generate reports and shape its campaigns.
4. In order to stop human rights violations, Amnesty International exposes them through meticulous, painstaking research and reporting which it discloses to the public, government officials, intergovernmental organizations, opinion leaders and shapers, as well as its members. Every year Amnesty International disseminates human rights information on approximately 150 countries around the world, as well as on abuses perpetrated by non-state actors. In addition, the organization distributes a large volume of information on a broad range of thematic human rights issues such as violence against women, abuses fuelled by military, security or police transfers, refugee and migrant issues, and information about human rights laws and treaties.
5. The publicizing of human rights abuses is a core component of Amnesty International's mission and central to all of its activities. For example, one of Amnesty International's primary action strategies is letter writing, an activity through which Amnesty International communicates its concerns to key decision-makers around the world while simultaneously educating the public and its membership about the issues involved. In addition to letter writing campaigns and reports on human rights issues around the world, Amnesty International engages in widespread education work, the purpose of which is also to disseminate information about human rights.
6. Based on my many years of experience with this organization and my familiarity with its goals and methods, as discussed in ¶¶1-5, I am certain that Amnesty International is primarily engaged in the dissemination of information.

7. It is also my opinion, based on Amnesty International's extensive involvement with the issues over the past forty-five years, that imminent threats to the physical safety and lives of many individuals could be prevented with information we have requested. Research shows that individuals who are held by governments that do not disclose information about their fate and whereabouts are at great risk of physical and psychological maltreatment, torture, and death. Additionally, it is well-established that the psychological impact of prolonged solitary detention in an unknown location may also lead to severe health consequences. For these reasons, I believe that failure to obtain the requested information will pose imminent and ongoing threats to the lives and physical safety of individuals.
8. I further certify that the disclosure of the requested information would serve a humanitarian need for at least two reasons. First, information about secret detention practices is essential for Amnesty International and other organizations to educate the public about these practices. So long as governments believe it is permissible to detain people secretly, without determinations of guilt or any other supervision, our basic human rights are at risk. Second, the information is needed to ensure that those being detained and transferred are not suffering the harms set out in ¶ 7. Disclosure of the fate and whereabouts of the individuals being held or transferred is required to alleviate these risks. The disclosure of this information will therefore promote the welfare and interest of humanity.

Curt Goering, Senior Deputy
Executive Director for Policy and Programs of Amnesty International
